

THE ARIZONA REPUBLICAN.

ISSUED EVERY DAY IN THE YEAR BY
THE REPUBLICAN PUBLISHING COMPANY.

Entered at the postoffice at Phoenix, Arizona as mail matter of the second class.

THE REPUBLICAN HAS ITS OWN SPECIAL WIRE connecting its office direct with San Francisco and Chicago, and through these cities with all the great news centers of the world. Besides the Associated Press report it receives more special dispatches every day than any paper west of St.
Louis, outside of San Francisco.

SILVER, COPPER AND LEAD.
Silver was quoted yesterday at $1.02 per ounce; copper at $14.75 per 100 pounds, and lead at $5.25 per 100 pounds.

SEVERAL thousand acres should be added, this winter, to the amount of land planted to fruit in this valley.

We would remind the Albuquerque Citizen that THE ARIZONA REPUBLICAN is published at Phoenix. Our friend seems to have overlooked that fact.

OVER twenty million pounds of grain, produced in the Salt River Valley last year, shows that the "deserts" of Arizona afford pretty good locations for ranches.

It would be a profitable move for the Territory if the next Legislature would reduce the price of "Ben Goodrich's Bible," the Revised Statutes, to about $2.50 per copy.

It looks now as though the Council and House would each be a tie. It is to be hoped that in case they are the experience of the famous Thirteenth will not be repeated.

The post-campaign roster is missed from the columns of most of THE RE-PUBLICAN'S exchanges. It looks as though neither party were satisfied with the results of the elections.

The general sentiment throughout the Territory seems to be that the fees of many of the county officers are too high. The Legislature will be called upon to do some economizing for the people.

The need of sidewalks, which THE REPUBLICAN has so persistently urged for the past six months, was never more apparent than yesterday. Let us have walks on Washington street at least, even if none are built elsewhere.

PEDESTRIANS who trudge through the mud of the "sidewalks" fervently wish for an ordinance under the terms of which there shall be some adequate provision made for the convenience of the walking public on the main thoroughfares.

THIS seems to have been a great year for the "scratchers" to get in their work at the election, and not only in Arizona, but throughout the Union. In one predict in Fresno County, California, where 150 Republican votes were cast, 101 were "scratched;" and of the 74 Democratic votes in the precinct, 58 were "scratched." Such work is indicative of the intelligence and independence of the voters of today, and augurs well for the future of the Republic.

ENCOURAGED by the results of the "off-year" elections, Messrs. Cleveland and Hill are already commencing to work for the Democratic Presidential nomination in 1892. Cleveland's idea is to write public letters; Hill inclines more to interviews. Cleveland has the strength of a lot of former officials, anxious to be reinstated at the public crib. Hill has the backing of Tammany Hall and the advantage of greater activity and more popular partisan ideas. They are in the fight to stay and the contest will soon become acrimonious and even personal.
It may be that the obstinacy of their factions will render probable the nomination of a dark horse.

CALIFORNIA election returns are in refreshing contrast with those of the states east of the Rockies. Markham has a majority for Governor that is perhaps the largest that has ever been given a candidate for the executive chair of that State, and the rest of the State ticket trails closely after. It is probable that every Congressman will be a Republican, while the Legislature will be decidedly Republican, ensuring the return of Leland Stanford to the Senate.

It must be confessed that the overwhelming majority given for Markham in California is a surprise to even the most enthusiastic Republican. The party in that State entered the campaign with the expectation of a hard fight and a possible small majority.
Pond, the Democratic nominee, is a gentleman of the highest character, against whom the shafts of calumny would fall of execution. He had been a popular Mayor of the chief city of the State, and was, without doubt, the best candidate who could have been put forward by his party. He is a good public speaker and had able party managers at his back. On the contrary, Colonel Markham, the Republican candidate, is a man of somewhat retiring disposition and not gifted by nature with a silver tongue. His character, also, was beyond reproach. The Democratic party, confident from the victories of a long series of State elections, entered the fight with every assurance of success. But there was one load they carried that handicapped them seriously and to which the loss of the election may be directly attributed. The blind boss of the San Francisco Democracy, Chris. Buckley, had taken too open a part in Pond's nomination. The result was a wholesome rebuke to bossism in California, and it is sincerely to be hoped that this evil will never again flourish.

PECUNIARLY INTERESTED.

Englishmen are usually considered rather slow to catch the point of an idea or a joke, yet there are no people in the world who are as quick in grasping an idea that may prove beneficial to them in a commercial way. In this connection it might be instanced that the London Times, the leader of English thought, in commenting upon the result of the election in the United States, says: "It is sincerely to be hoped that it would be a death blow to protection." The other prominent English journals express substantially the same hope.

The question might well be asked:
"Why does England take such an interest in the economic problems of a foreign nation?" The answer is quick to come, that, if free trade existed in America, England could undersell the American producer in his own market. Favored by cheap water carriage, she would be able to lay manufactured articles down in the seaboard cities at a lower price than could be possible with the American artificer in the inland cities.

England does nothing sentimentally.
It is a nation that weighs all things in a scale set for pounds, shillings and pence.
It is not difficult to imagine that under a free-trade policy the British mechanic would be busy and prosperous on the work that is now done by the American artisan and laborer. The money that now feeds the American and his family would be sent to foreign lands.

Prices of many manufactured articles would, of course, be lower in the seaboard cities, but the consumer would reap little benefit. For a tin cup the retail buyer would still pay five cents, though it may have cost the dealer only three cents, instead of three and one-half cents, as it does at present. The prices of the necessities of life would be no lower, indeed no one could consensually seek to reduce the income of the agriculturists of the country.

The revenues of the Nation must be raised in some manner, and if not by taxes upon imports, then by taxes upon internal production, trade and property.
The United States has no source of wealth at hand like England has in India.

These things must be thought over dispassionately and broadly. Because one man's affairs or one community's affairs are not prospering, it is not necessarily on account of the tariff, though Democratic and mugwump orators would have it appear that the tariff is the source of every evil imaginable.
There are ebbs and flows of business as well as of the tides. These changes from brisk times to slow are usually caused by purely local reasons, and those voters in the East who opposed the McKinley bill at the polls will soon learn the lesson.

Safely assuming that what is England's gain is America's loss, it might be further mentioned that the London Times concludes "that it will not be easy for the Democrats to find a more able Presidential candidate than Mr.
Cleveland."
